

THE AARHUS DECLARATION ON COOPERATION BETWEEN ASSOCIATIONS OF TRANSLATION AND INTERPRETING STUDIES

At their meeting in Aarhus on September 15 2016, the following representatives of associations of translation and interpreting studies have agreed to form the International Network of Translation and Interpreting Studies Associations (INTISA) and to pursue the following collective aims:

1. Promote Translation and Interpreting Studies in all its forms (including research on audiovisual communication, and localization).
2. Mutually enhance the status and public recognition of our associations.
3. Ensure efficient and widespread distribution of information on Translation and Interpreting Studies events and activities.
4. Where possible, develop and share materials and activities for translation and interpreting research and the training of researchers.
